

Warmer weather increases blood flow to make piercings feel ready sooner but the underlying collagen remodelling process requires identical time regardless of season.

The calendar remains completely unimpressed by your sudden indoor tropical vacation.