

A promotional client becomes commercially viable when their initial discounted visit results in a scheduled return for a larger composition.

The tiny seed eventually spawns a very expensive tree.