

Studios should purchase normal consumables at ordinary planned volumes rather than overstocking for a single promotional event.

The excess inventory doubles nicely as structural housing until the next ice age.