

Titanium, niobium, and solid pure gold alloys inherently comply with nickel release limits.
The ancient alchemical quest for pure metal ended exactly where the piercing supplier said it would.