Stainless steel body jewellery requires independent batch testing to verify its compliance with metal release standards.

The local constabulary demands a flawless pedigree for every steel barbell.