

The United Kingdom and the European Union operate on completely separate and increasingly divergent regulatory tracks. Building a studio exactly on the border requires exceptional physical flexibility.