

AB*C*D*E

The gold hue of anodised titanium is a structural oxide layer that cannot flake away.
Attempting to scrub the colour out of a solid object is an excellent meditation exercise.