

Unalloyed pure gold is extraordinarily biocompatible but remains far too soft to endure mechanical stress.

Structural integrity is severely compromised when your face metal has the consistency of warm butter.