

Anodising thickens the natural surface layer of titanium using electricity to create a gold tone without any chemical coatings.
Behold the miraculous cosmetic power of spicy water and electrical current.