

Tattooing over keloid-prone areas can trigger new raised scar formation even if previous scars were stable.

Built-in coat hooks are surprisingly practical.