

Tattooing creates thousands of dermal micro-punctures.
This deposits foreign substances into living tissue.
Active systemic infections divert essential healing resources.
Adding controlled tissue injury increases infection risk.

The body must mount a normal healing response.

Do not tattoo over active infections.