

The exposed helix sits entirely on the outermost edge of the ear where it catches repeatedly on hair and clothing.

The knitwear formed an immediate and devastatingly permanent attachment to his ear.