

The deep concave bowl of the conch makes the build-up of dried exudate behind the jewellery incredibly difficult to see and clean.

The morning hygiene routine escalated into a complex optical physics experiment.