

Titanium standards do not answer the material safety question for non-metal polymer jewellery.
The metal detector remains deeply confused by the plastic.