

European market regulations demand that body jewelry passes strict nickel release tests.
Catching allergens requires exceptional reflexes.