

Factory materials certificates cost nothing compared to the legal defense of claiming good intentions.

Tears of joy are terrible for official documents.