

Some body jewellery marked as titanium is actually grade 5 alloy with questionable processing.
Cheaper metals offer outstanding resistance to intentional bending