
Photography consent is legally distinct from procedure consent and clients can withdraw it at any time.

The camera steals the soul but only with explicit prior permission.