

The actual specification of the metal used must be stated rather than just a generic marketing label.
Implant grade is a vibe while an alloy specification is a promise.