

A signed consent form without a genuine disclosure conversation is legally worthless.
The clipboard remains an excellent listener.