

Informed consent has 3 required elements: disclosure, comprehension, and voluntariness.

No machine has yet been invented to measure whether a client is actually listening.