

The immune system develops sensitization and contact dermatitis through repeated or prolonged exposure.

Clinical response reveals what the immune system does with exposure.