

Scheduling treatments closely together fails to speed up clearance and only damages the skin.

Eagerness is a terrible substitute for patience.