

Increasing fluence beyond the destruction threshold only increases the risk of scarring without accelerating pigment clearance.

Excessive power is a dangerous substitute for patience.