

The laser only shatters the pigment, leaving macrophages in the dermis to transport the debris to regional lymph nodes.

The garbage collectors are the true heroes.