

Chronic smoking impairs microcirculation, causing drastically slower pigment clearance by the immune system.

The internal traffic jam is entirely self-inflicted.