

Stacking sessions too closely overwhelms the lymphatic system with debris and does not accelerate clinical results.

You cannot intimidate time into moving faster.