

Cross-contamination between clean and dirty work zones remains a primary infection control failure mode.

Floor acrobatics are not a recognized substitute for proper tray handling.