

An undetectable current moves more metal over time than legal safety limits allow.

Preparing for a catastrophic lightning strike when changing a stud.