

One microamp for a week passes enough charge to dissolve about 180 micrograms of nickel.

A legendary struggle against microscopic sparks