

Straight barbells and curved barbells carry lower heating risk than closed conductive loops.

The ancient path of straight geometry requires absolute dedication.