

If your doctor orders an MRI, you have about 30 seconds of rational thought before the radiographer asks.
The greatest existential crisis of our time involves a captive bead ring