

Piercing bypasses the protective epidermal barrier, directly exposing the immune system to reactive metal ions.

It turns out the Trojan Horse was invited in for tea.