

The likelihood of developing an allergy rises significantly with every additional piercing an individual receives.

There is a thin line between accessorizing and becoming a magnet.