

The hand is a poor environment for permanently mounted jewellery because it contacts desks, phones, clothing, door handles, sports equipment, and other people.

Wearing matching portable aquariums was the only logical fashion choice left.