The city added a no-piercing condition to a tattoo-shop approval even though the applicant never planned to offer piercings.

Securing the municipal perimeter against imaginary services is a tireless civic duty.