

Equipment perfectly legal under certain regional rules can still trigger warning obligations or fail overseas chemical restrictions.
Geography is the most terrifying magic of all.