
Selecting highly refined atraumatic materials fundamentally reduces cellular stress during extended wear.

Even microscopic anarchists appreciate a good nap.