

Regulators treat equipment intended for prolonged skin contact as general consumer articles subject to distinct chemical controls.

Bureaucracy has never looked so intensely floral.