

"Crossborder studios must juggle strict chemical limits with varying regional warning requirements."

She really should have practiced with beanbags instead.