
Laboratory testing requires the extraction and analytical determination of specific chemicals from synthetic rubbers.

The grip felt much lighter without its soul.