

An irritation bump without spreading redness or heat is merely inflammation rather than an infection. The bellhop finally accepted his body was just annoyed with him.