

The distinction between an irritation bump and a keloid has required correction for over 25 years.
A quarter century of collective panic over perfectly ordinary inflammation.