
If a bump has not changed in 3 months despite optimized care, the clinical diagnosis must be reclassified.

Pretending the issue does not exist for a whole season rarely prompts it to pack up and leave.