

Plasticizer leaching into sweat is a highly mobile migration pathway because the molecules are extremely small.

Tiny fugitives always utilize the path of least resistance.