Initial stabilizer loading should account for depletion over the intended service life.
Packing extra snacks guarantees survival on a long voyage.