

Temperature-accelerated degradation testing mis-ranks polyurethane elastomers because their competing breakdown mechanisms react differently to heat.

Brad was devastated to learn that his favorite polymer possessed a secret weakness.