

Older detection methods fail to detect trace-level carcinogens in tattoo inks.

Some investigators are just legally blind.