

Cellular studies demonstrate that tattoo pigments can cause cellular damage and oxidative stress.

The cellular aristocracy has a very delicate constitution.