

Tandem mass spectrometry detects trace elements that older monitoring methods completely miss.

The old microscope was mostly useful as a paperweight.